Although early October weather was already hinting at the arrival of winter, AmCham Slovakia gave summer a well-deserved farewell at its traditional "Welcome Back to Work" Business Cocktail. Nearly two hundred members of the AmCham community from the business, academic, government, and non-profit sectors gathered at the beautiful House of Arts in Košice for an evening filled with inspiration, networking, and celebration.

The highlight of the evening was an exclusive concert by the State Philharmonic Košice, conducted by Peter Valentovič, whose masterful interpretation of Leonard Bernstein's works filled the hall with magic. This unforgettable performance set the tone for a night of lively conversations, excellent food, and exquisite drinks. The presence of representatives of local municipalities and the Košice Self-Governing Region, who delivered opening remarks, further underscored the importance and prestige of the event. Innovation also took the stage with a dynamic pitch by Andrej Nagy, winner of the Startup Connect ICKK award, presenting his startup Upfan.

With its exceptional atmosphere, inspiring discussions, and sense of community, the evening once again highlighted the strength, creativity, and unity of the AmCham network in Eastern Slovakia, bringing together leaders, innovators, and visionaries from across the region.
